City of Los Angeles, Department of Cultural Affairs, Public Art Division Approval Process

All public art projects located on or over City property must be submitted to the Cultural Affairs Commission (CAC) for approval prior to installation. Public art projects include any artwork placed in, upon or extending over any City building, street, avenue, park or other City-owned or City-controlled location.

Following is the application material needed to schedule a presentation to the CAC. As part of the approval process, the art project must be first presented to the Public Art Committee (PAC), an advisory committee to the Commission. The PAC reviews all public art projects and recommends them for approval by the CAC. Any comments made by the PAC must be addressed before the presentation to the CAC.

The approval process consists of:

- 1) Completing the Application for Approval of Public Artwork, and gathering requested supporting materials;
- 2) Submitting an application to the Public Art Division;
- 3) Scheduling dates to present the art project to the PAC and CAC;
- 4) Appearing before the PAC to receive feedback and be recommended for approval to the CAC; and
- 5) Appearing before the CAC to receive a conceptual and/or final approval.

If you have any questions please contact Public Art Division staff:

City Department Fees and Fee Exemption Requirements

Submissions presented to the CAC from other City departments are exempt from fees if they conform to the conditions provided in L.A.M.C. Section 11.08. To be exempt, submit a letter or call Public Art Division staff at (213) 202-5544. All City department submissions shall pay a fee if reimbursable from Revolving, Trust, Bond or Capital Improvement Funds. If all or part of the proposed project is being funded in this manner, please state on your fee payment documents the fund number, type and percentage of project that is being used to calculate fees.

Regulation for Submission of Proposals

- All materials must be completed and submitted before 12 noon on the Tuesday, fifteen (15) days prior to the Committee Meeting Date. Late packages will not be accepted and may tentatively be rescheduled for the next available hearing date. Applications will not be processed and scheduled for a hearing/agenda until the Public Art Division receives all required submittal components.
- The presentation fee, based on the project cost, is required and covers conceptual and final review levels.
- A presentation by the applicant, artist or community representative is required at each of the two hearings.
- The PAC meets on the 2nd Wednesday of every month at 11A, except holidays. Unless otherwise noted, all Committee meetings are held at 201 North Figueroa Street, Suite 1400, in downtown Los Angeles.
- The CAC meets on the 2nd Wednesday of every month at 1:30P, except holidays. Unless otherwise noted, all Commission meetings are held at 201 N. Figueroa Street, Suite 1400, in downtown Los Angeles.
- The Commission minutes will be your only official record of Final Approval. Request a copy from Public Art staff.
- Final approval by the CAC is granted for the specific design and one-time production presented.
- Any changes to the artwork design as approved by the Commission may constitute another community meeting and/or presentation to the PAC and CAC. A “significant change” is considered one that affects the design, color, size, material, texture, installation, site preparation and/or maintenance of the artwork. Significant changes must be presented for another round of review and approval.

Helpful Hints for Presentation of Materials in Front of a Review Board

- Arrive on time. Find the Public Art Division staff member who is handling your agenda item and let them know you are present and ready. Understand that agenda items may be taken out of order, therefore you may be asked to present earlier or wait patiently to present later.
- An in-house, audio and video system and computer will be provided. Although the project manager will have uploaded your presentation to the computer ahead of time, bring presentation on a USB flash drive for back up purposes.
- Bring larger/enlarged photocopies of the artist's rendering or a series of images placed together to make one large display on a board at least two feet tall or wide. Glue or affix your presentation materials to a firm piece of cardboard or foam-core board. When you are called, place your large display(s) on the meeting room easels so the commissioners can view them from six feet away. Avoid passing around small images (unless a board member asks to see something closer), since passing things wastes times, creates confusion and often distracts people from the presentation.

- Prepare a quick (3 minutes maximum) introduction to your project. A staff person will introduce you, the project, the project location, the artist's name and selection process, the funding source(s) for the project and summarize the community's involvement with the project. Therefore you should speak only and directly about the project's aesthetics, concept, materials and color theory.
- Stop speaking after the facts are presented. Ask the public board if they have any questions or concerns. Allow the board to direct the remaining 5-10 minutes of dialogue. If they have no questions or concerns, you will receive quick approval. Try to answer as many of their questions with "Yes" or "No", or very brief descriptions.
- It is best to remember these public board members of the PAC and CAC are also part of your community and have a great sense of whether your project is excellent, unique and/or safe; therefore, although your project might be ready for approval in the presenter's opinion, and with the neighborhood and project supporters, be open to changes and compromises and be willing to promise alterations that do not directly contradict the choices and needs of the artist's style, the community and the project sponsors.
